

If you've got a passion for organics, social enterprise and social justice, this might be the job of a lifetime for you?

Cyrenians Farm near Edinburgh is seeking an experienced and dynamic organic grower, passionate about empowering young people, to manage our growing social enterprise.

We have 10 acres of beautiful land, organic registered, with 200 laying hens, market garden, raspberry field, bees, a small sheep flock, and newly established orchard areas. We've just established a commercial kitchen and rustic training area.

On site, Cyrenians Farm Community – with its own social work staffing - provides accommodation for 8 young people who have experienced homelessness, and 6 residential volunteers. Cyrenians Farm provides work experience and volunteering opportunities for the residents and members of the wider community.

The more successful you can make the enterprise, the more we can invest in better, more sustainable futures..

For more information, a recent television clip can be viewed at;
<http://search.bbc.co.uk/cgi-bin/search/results.pl?scope=all&tab=av&recipe=all&q=homelessness+farming>

For application information (later this week), please see;

<http://www.cyrenians.org.uk/about/jobs.html>. or call Sean Jacques at 0131 333 5202